

Superbowl food warms the tummy

To the Editor:

Food and football go hand in hand, and the Super Bowl is about far more than men drinking beer, grazing on chips and dip and screaming obscenities at the TV screen. Rather, the best football parties offer an array of food choices sure to please a hungry crowd. No one knows this better FoodieView - a leading food portal giving users direct, one-click access to the Internet's largest selection of football friendly recipes - nearly 5,000 - that are sure to score major points with party guests.

Simply visit www.FoodieView.com type "football" into the search field that's front and center on the home page, click "search" and viola! Thousands of recipes sure to make your Super Bowl soirée more satisfying will be at your fingertips. You should find just what you need for your family and friends and have a great Super Bowl Sunday!

Merilee Kern
Poway, CA

