The Jenson Group Luxury Realty's High-Definition Video Home Tours Now Available as Podcasts Downloadable to iTunes, iPods, iPhones and Other QuickTime-Compatible Devices

Leading Las Vegas Realty Enabling REALTORS and Consumers Alike to Remotely Access and Share Upscale Home Tour Videos, Making Buying and Selling Residential Real Estate More Efficient and Effective

LAS VEGAS, NV, September 23, 2008 – The Jenson Group of RE/MAX CENTRAL (www.TheJensonGroup.com), a leading Las Vegas luxury real estate agency specializing in high-end residential property, today announced that its high-definition video home tours may now be downloaded as podcasts onto, and viewed using, Apple® iPods® and iPhones®, among other portable QuickTime™-compatible devices. This in addition to the company's new luxury home tour podcasts also being viewable both via Apple iTunes® software and from the company's own Web site located at www.TheJensonGroup.com.

To access, users may either access podcasts of interest singularly, on-demand, or may opt to subscribe to The Jenson Group's free "podcast push" service through which users will automatically receive, via his or her iTunes software, the agency's newest hi-def home tour videos as soon as they become available. The podcast(s) of choice may then be downloaded onto an iPod, iPhone and/or other QuickTime-enabled device that supports video podcast technology.

"Our new hi-def home tour podcasts are not only a boon for home buyers who want details of newly listed property as quickly as possible, but also for early technology adopter, marketing-savvy REALTORS® who seek any and every competitive edge to best service their clientele and bring deals to fruition," said Robert Jenson, founder, CEO and principal REALTOR at The Jenson Group. "Agents who operate in the high end luxury real estate sector fit this bill perfectly, and I expect will find this new service of great value as they seek a market advantage."

"No longer relegated to sitting in front of a computer to access video-based property information, now agents and home buyers alike may view and share this valuable information remotely, while out and about in the field...even on-the-fly in real-time with a properly equipped laptop," Jenson notes. "This allows interested parties to qualify a property and take action far quicker than ever before, providing a significant strategic advantage that can make all the difference in the world. While cliché, in real estate the old adage 'timing is everything' certainly holds true."
