The United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) issued its 10 millionth patent number in June 2018 and continues to go strong. In fact, according to a PatentlyO.com-published report, "We are about three-fourths of the way through fiscal year 2019 (ends September 30, 2019) and the USPTO is on-track to issue the most patents ever in a single year period," with the author forecasting, "330,000 issued utility patents, which is up about five percent from the prior one-year high in 2017." While these kinds of milestones have created much ado about patents that have changed the world, including a number of popular
